SuperSonics

SuperSonics are free music performance workshops. Led by students from Trinity Laban's Faculty of Music, these interactive sessions are designed to introduce KS2 pupils to the magical world of live musical performance. These workshops are designed to help children hone their skills in listening and appraising music, and to encourage instrumental learning.

We are offering 45 minute workshops on the mornings of Wednesday 21st and Friday 23rd April. Children do not have to be learning an instrument to take part.

These workshops are always in high demand, so early booking is recommended. To find out more about how we are ensuring these visits are Covid-secure, and to book a SuperSonics workshop for your school, click below to complete our online booking form.

Madagascar

This year, students from Trinity Laban's Musical Theatre degree course are offering free performances of Madagascar, in your school!

Ideal for KS2 pupils, this extraordinary musical adventure will bring your favourite characters to life: join them on their journey across the world from New York's Central Park Zoo.

Performances will last roughly 75 minutes, and are available from Monday 26th – Friday 30th April. Our Musical Theatre Schools Tour is always highly popular, so early booking is recommended.

To find out more about how we are ensuring these shows are Covid-secure, and to book a performance for your school, please read and complete our online booking form:
